Biography

Bryan is a litigator with experience representing clients in complex litigation matters in state and federal courts, including breach of contract and business tort claims, product liability defense, complex construction and engineering litigation, and antitrust claims.

Prior to joining Miller Barondess, Bryan was an associate at Hollingsworth LLP in Washington, D.C. He received his Juris Doctor from Georgetown University Law Center, where he was a member of the Barrister's Counsel (Appellate Advocacy Division) and a notes editor on the Georgetown Journal of Legal Ethics. While in law school, Bryan defended indigent clients charged with misdemeanors before the Superior Court of the District of Columbia as part of Georgetown's Criminal Defense and Prisoner Advocacy Clinic, and completed a judicial externship for the Honorable Judith Ashmann-Gerst, California Court of Appeal. He received his undergraduate degree, summa cum laude, from the University of California, Berkeley.

Notable Representations

- Defended multinational pharmaceutical company against products liability claims, which asserted that the company failed to provide adequate warnings under FDA regulations.
- Represented an industry sponsored recycling program in an antitrust lawsuit, alleging group boycott as well as violations of California unfair competition laws.

- Defended major cosmetics manufacturer in multi-jurisdictional products liability actions.
- Represented general contractor and engineer of record in a complex construction and engineering dispute involving a near billion-dollar ammonia plant expansion project.
