Biography

James is a business litigator with a background representing diverse clientele in matters including contract disputes, fraud, consumer protection, labor disputes, business torts, and appellate concerns. He has practiced in trial and appellate courts at the state and federal levels. Prior to joining Miller Barondess, James was a litigation associate at the Los Angeles office of a global law firm.

James obtained his Bachelor's degree in History from Yeshiva University, and returned to his hometown of Los Angeles to attend the University of Southern California, Gould School of Law, where he was the Edward G. Lewis Moot Court Champion.

Prior to law school, James worked in hedge fund advisory in New York and then as the head of quantitative analytics for a Philadelphia-based family office.

James is also an adjunct professor of advanced appellate advocacy at USC Gould School of Law.
